The inky colored 2016 Cotes du Roussillon Mas Las Cabes checks in as a mix of 60% Syrah and 40% Grenache that was raised in equal parts barrel (one and two-year barrels) and concrete. Black raspberries, cassis, leafy herbs and hints of white pepper give way to a medium to full-bodied, supple, impressively concentrated Syrah that's going to drink nicely for at least 4-5 years.
